Sample Answer

I still remember the birthday party that I had when I turned 25. I came back to my country after 3 years of studying master degree in Australia. When I arrived at the airport, I visualized that there would be lots of people welcoming me so I rushed to home. All my best friends and families were at home and surprised me with flowers and presents. That night, my mom cooked my favorite foods like pizza, mushroom risotto. It was a long time since I ate traditional food so I tucked in every dish happily. I had this food in Australia but the taste wasn't as tasty as in my hometown. The flavor, the smell evoked memories that I had before. That was the best meal in my life as everything was mouth-watering and fresh. The meal is so special to me as it is a reunion after a long time and I still feel touching whenever I think about it. I was over the moon because of their affection for me. It was a night to remember as we chatted about many things and took lots of photos to capture that moment. The memory still brings tears to my eyes and it's the best meal in my life.

Speaking Part 3

1 Do you think people prefer indoor or outdoor activities?

Well, I guess it depends on the age. The youngsters likely to flock to fitness centers where they are supplied with cutting-edge facilities. It's easy to track their workout and there are trainers helping them with exercises. On the other hand, outdoor activities are much more favorable to the elderly. They can do exercise anytime at the park without any charge. Outdoor activities allow old people to be closer to nature so they will work out harder and be as fit as a fiddle.

2 Nowadays, the youngsters tend to take part in risky sports. What do you think about this?

I personally believe that dangerous sports have both pros and cons. These sports stimulates youngsters to step out of their comfort zone and challenge themselves. Besides, fortune favors the brave so that's why at boxing matches, the winners receive lots of money. Adventurers develop self-confidence and help them become more mature than their fellows. However, everything comes with price tag so the juniors face many life-threatening consequences like injury or even death. They have to follow strict safety rules to defend themselves. I think that this trend will become more and more popular in the future.

3 Men are likely to join in risky sports than women. Why do you think this happens?

In my opinion, different gender have different interest. Women tend to take part in some gentle physical activities like doing yoga. On the other hand, men love living on the edge and pushing their limits with boxing or rock climbing. While men are born with adventurous spirit and carefree nature, women are likely to be prudent and wary. It takes guts to join risky sports so it's suitable for men as they have passion to overcome natural barriers.
