Sample Answer

The maps illustrate the changes that have taken place in a health care centre since 2005.

Overall, the main building has been expanded and restructured. While the garden has been reduced in size, the car park has been enlarged to serve more patients.

A new minor operations room has been erected in the top left-hand corner of the main building. All the three consulting rooms have been narrowed and relocated to the bottom right-hand corner of the building, and one more consulting room has been established.

The entrance has also been moved to the southwest of the building, next to the new location of the reception desk and close to a new children's play area. Whereas the office has been reduced in size, the main hall has been broadened and more seats have been added around the hall. The physiotherapy room has remained unchanged since 2005.

The car parking area has been expanded to make room for 18 new parking slots. By contrast, the size of the garden has been cut down by half. The fences have been relocated in accordance with the new areas for the car park and the garden.
